

BRENT RONEN

Harvey
Luella

For over two and a half years, Brent labored in his home studio, playing, mixing, and mastering his CD. He even designed the artwork and packaging. "It was important to me to be an artist first, and take the time to do it the way I wanted. I really like being involved in every part of the process." says Ronen.

After receiving attention from MCA Records & Sony Records, he realized his dream was to release his own music on his own label, on his own terms. "I wanted to be able to work on it till I was satisfied. Not give in to pressure to release it before it was ready. I think Harvey & Luella was worth the wait."

He came from a small town in the middle of Kansas, and learned to sing by spending hours in the cab of a tractor singing along with the radio. He performed for years with his band - Brent Ronen & The Always Near Band.

Now he records and produces in his home studio north of Nashville. In this day and age, Brent believes it is possible for anyone to break through, even without a major label. Talent is still a prerequisite, and if you find your audience, anything is possible.
